

A modern gold ring set with a Neoclassical carnelian intaglio. Bust of Bacchante.

Circa: Early 19th century

Intaglio:  $2.0 \times 1.7 \text{ cm} (0 \, {}^{3}/_{4} \times 0 \, {}^{5}/_{8} \text{ inches})$

Mounting: UK size  $K^{1/2}$ ; total weight 10,65 gr

Early 19th century

The bacchante is facing right, with a naked bust and hair adorned with bunches of grapes. In the background her attributes— the thyrsus and a small cup for wine. Attractive color of the stone. The gem is set in an older gold frame from a Georgian seal converted into a modern ring. Very good condition.
