

Bvlgari 'Monete' gold necklace.

Max. length 43 cm

Gold (18k - 750); Total weight: 126 gr

1979-1980 circa

An iconic Bvlgari Monete necklace, featuring an Roman bronze sestertius of Emperor Phillipus Caesar (AD.244-247) (Rome. M IVL PHILIPPVS CAES, bare-headed, draped bust of Philip II right. Rev. PRINCIPI IVVENT, Philip II standing left, holding globe and spear.)

The coin is set in a bezel and attached to the link chain. The Monete collection is one of the most iconic Bvlgari pieces at the moment. It is thanks to the timeless appearance of ancient coins. Furthermore, gold and bronze go very well together.

BVLGARI

Always inspired by Roman culture and the sense of Italian luxury, the Bvlgari brand has been able to fabulously celebrate these traditions since 1884.

Throughout its long history, Bvlgari jewelry has always been in high demand. Bvlgari's pieces have become iconic thanks to the unique manufacturing approach. Instead of following current design rules, Bvlgari focuses on all things Italian.

Opulent shapes, brilliantly colored stones and an unexpected blend of materials create that special and always recognizable Bvlgari atmosphere.

Today Parliament added innovation to the list of its core values. Bvlgari collaborates with several contemporary artists, such as Refik Anadol, Sougwen Chung and David Quayola.

Bulgari has expanded its offering to include other luxury products such as perfumes, leather goods and accessories, further establishing itself as a multifaceted luxury brand.